Course Descriptions

Multidisciplinary (MDT) members will receive training in evidence based, research supported forensic interviewing best practices. Participants will learn how a phased approach that is developmentally sound and culturally competent provides investigators with the necessary skills to effectively interview children who report physical and sexual abuse.

Day 1 (May 18, 2023) will focus on the different types of interviews and the phased approach in forensic interviewing. Trainers will prepare trainees to develop the needed skills to conduct forensic interviews of children of all ages.

Day 2 (May 19, 2023) will continue to prepare the trainees to develop needed skills to conduct a forensic interview, including special topics related to interviewing pre-op and adolescent children where there may have been multiple perpetrators and how and under what circumstances to use interview aids and props. Child and sexual development will be presented to increase participants' knowledge and skills in the interview process.

Day 3 (May 30, 2023) covers understanding sex abuse dynamics and the accommodation syndrome and how best to incorporate these models in the forensic interview. In addition, participants will be taught skills necessary to interview children with disabilities, and children who may be exposed to substance abuse, domestic violence and mental health issues. Understanding cultural issues and dealing with recantation will also be discussed. The day will include time to prepare for the practicum role play interviews that will take place on day four.

Day 4 (May 31, 2023) provides participants with hands on experience and enhanced skill building with an extensive interviewing practicum. Professional actors play the role of an abused child; each participant is provided the opportunity to conduct a full forensic interview using skills developed in days one, two and three of the training.

Day 5 (June 1, 2023) covers a variety of special topics to further enhance interviewer's skills. Topics will include interviewing child victims who present with sexual behavior problems, preparing for court (Criminal and Family) and raise the age and bail reform.
